

ABSTRACT

A system and method for adjusting the frequency response of a main speaker system used in conjunction with a subwoofer by modifying the input signal in response to user-adjustable settings to compensate for main-speaker effects characteristics in order to produce
5 a desirable blend of the subwoofer sonic output and the main-speaker sonic output.